VOL. II.

GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CAL., SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1906.

NO. 16

CHARLES L. LOGAN,

Candidate for County Recorder.

As for the candidacy of Charles L. Logan for County Recorder, it seems conceded to him for being good so long. Logan has campaigned up and down and over and across the county for many years for the success of the Republican ticket and has been content heretofore to remain in a minor capacity at the courthouse. No man worked harder or more faithfully than has Mr. Logan in the course of his public duties. When Mr. Logan was a Deputy County Clerk he was known as one of the most efficient men who ever held that position. When he became Chief Deputy County Treasurer, where he has received and disbursed nearly $24,000,000, he set a new mark for that office. If he is nominated and elected County Recorder he is sure to put into that position and its duties the same energy and the same intelligence that made his success elsewhere. Mr. Logan is well equipped for the duties of the office to which he aspires. He is clean and upright, personally and officially.

A FAITHFUL SERVANT.

In another column will be found the announcement of Ben E. Ward as an independent candidate for assessor of Los Angeles county.

As this paper believes in the best men being elected to fill our public offices, we quite naturally endorse Mr. Ward's candidacy, as he has been tried and found to be true to his trust and fair and square with all classes. Of course, Mr. Ward will be strongly opposed by the corporations, but the majority of the voters cannot but know that it is to their interests to have Mr. Ward re-elected. Mr. Ward makes no discriminations between individuals, but makes his assessments in accordance with law, and has the courage to face all complainants and give his reasons why he has done thus and so, and his recent stand in regard to corporation assessments shows him to be a man of true and honest purpose, no matter what the influence may be that is brought to bear to influence him from the path of duty. Ben Ward is all right.

GLENDALE CITY MARKET.

Glendale has a new meat market, which was opened for business on Thursday in the room formerly occupied by Hezmalhatch & Talbott, corner Third street and Glendale avenue. J. D. Verdugo and Chas. D. Campbell are the proprietors. Mr. Verdugo is well and favorably known in Glendale, he having lived here all his life, and Mr. Campbell is from Los Angeles, where he has been engaged in the butcher business for some time. Mr. Campbell being an experienced butcher, will have charge of the cutting and everything requiring the attention of a skilled butcher, while Mr. Verdugo will attend to the order and delivery department. A full line of clean fresh meats will be kept on hand at all times, and these gentlemen solicit the patronage of the people of Glendale and the valley.

CAUCUS DELEGATES ELECTED.

The caucus delegates, W. Parcher, A. Fanset, F. E. Albright and John Hobbs, were elected delegates to the Republican county convention, to be held at Venice, August 21. The caucus delegates had no opposition except in the case of Mr. Albright, he winning by a very narrow margin of only three votes. The delegates go to the convention uninstructed, and it is believed will vote for the very best men. One very important thing should not be overlooked by the delegates from this valley and that is that every delegate from this section of the country should use every effort to defeat the nomination of Judge G. A. Gibbs to the superior bench. Judge Gibbs is the man who, not being satisfied with giving a rank decision as to the title of the waters of this valley, went still further and granted an injunction that may be put into effect at any time in restraining the farmers from pumping water from their own wells. Mr. Gibbs, we understand, has been slated for re-nomination, but if he should be re-nominated we do not believe that any fair-minded man, no matter what party he may be affiliated with, will after he learns of the decision he gave in the water suit between the farmers and the city of Los Angeles, give him his support. Ordinarily, nomination by the Republican party in Los Angeles county means election, but if the delegates at the county convention nominate this man Gibbs it is to be hoped that he may be ignominiously defeated at the polls in November.

The Roadrunner, a bright, four-column, eight-page paper published in Pasadena by G. W. Glover, came to our office this week. The copy received was No. 2 of volume 1, and if the paper is to improve with age, Pasadena and the citizens of that beautiful city are indeed to be congratulated.

Mr. Glover is a true moulder of public opinion and he always insists that common justice shall be accorded all citizens; he is a believer in fair play and is one of the ablest writers in Southern California. His clean-cut editorials under the nom de plume of "Roadrunner" are bound to interest all good people who read them and cause them to awaken to a sense of their responsibilities as citizens. We predict a bright future for the Roadrunner and its able editor.

AN EXPERT JEWELRY REPAIRER.

Chas. F. Schwere has opened a watch and clock repairing business in the First National Bank building, Brand Boulevard, where first-class work will be done at very moderate prices.

Mr. Schwere gave up his fine jewelry business in Pomona, in connection with the repairing trade, where he was well known as a thorough, experienced workman, on account of his wife's health and he and his family are now residents of Tropic.

LOOK OUT FOR FRUIT THIEVES.

On Sunday night two thieves, a man and woman, were caught stealing peaches from the orchard of Mrs. Irving on Third street.

Mrs. Irving is an invalid and has been confined to her room for some time and keeps a nurse in attendance upon her. The nurse in walking about the place noticed a woman in the peach orchard and when the woman saw her she ran. Thinking this rather strange, the nurse went into the house and reported the occurrence to Mrs. Irving, after which she went outside to make another investigation, when she again saw the woman in the peach orchard. The nurse then returned to the house and secured a shotgun and went down into the peach orchard to investigate more freely. The strange woman, upon her approach, again fled, and while watching the actions of the woman and wondering why she acted so queerly, the nurse heard a noise among the branches of a peach tree, and without further inquiry she took a shot in the direction of the noise, when a man dropped to the ground and took to his heels.

Numerous complaints are heard in this section in regard to depredations being made upon peach orchards, and it is to be hoped that some party may yet a better aim at these thieves and succeed in filling their hides full of lead.

City trustees met Wednesday evening, members present, Jennings, Parcher and Watson. Absent, Fanset and Anderson.

Minutes of previous meeting approved as read.

The city clerk reported having ordered fifty copies of ordinance No. 18 at cost of four cents each.

City clerk and street superintendent were authorized to procure necessary books and blanks for use in street proceedings and to confer with city attorney in reference thereto.

City clerk was instructed to take necessary steps to secure membership for City of Glendale in the League of California Municipalities.

Mrs. C. G. Mosher, of Hollywood, is the guest of her friend, Mrs. W. H. Witham.

Miss Beth Coulter of Los Angeles spent Sunday with Miss Cora Ward of Second and I streets.

Entered Into Rest

Mrs. Abby G. Chase, beloved wife of Mr. I. T. Chase and mother of Mrs. J. N. Witham of Seventh St., passed painlessly away after a short illness, on August 13th, at the age of 80 years. Abby G. Thayer was born in Canada, was married to I. T. Chase in 1853. Five children were born to them of whom only one survives. For many years they made their home at Hector, New York, which disposing of they came to Glendale about four years ago and have made here and Tropic their home since that time. Mrs. Chase was a lady of dignity and of quiet refinement, who did not suffer advancing years as many do, to force her into inactive retirement and decay of her mental powers, but kept up her interest in life and in the society of her friends until the last and thus all her faculties were remarkably retained and preserved. She was born of Hicksite or liberal Quaker parentage and though separated from it, retained her attachment for many of the principles of that sect her whole life through, though she and her husband since coming here have been regular attendants at the Presbyterian church. The funeral on Thursday at the house of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Witham was largely attended by sympathizing neighbors and friends from out of town. Services were conducted by Rev. Edgar Leavitt, Universalist, speaking from the words "Whether we live therefore or whether we die we are the Lord's." The sympathy of all will be especially felt for Mr. Chase called upon to part with the companion of so many years, but how comforting is the thought of the future life where we shall meet again with our beloved, and of the opportunity for endless progress.

EAGLE ROCK ITEMS.

The long looked for opening of the new electric car line is assured for Monday, August 20th. The cars will run every half-hour between the hours of 6 a. m. and 12 p. m., and the fare to Los Angeles, including the privilege of transfers to any Los Angeles Railway car, will be 5 cents. This promises to be a great factor in the building up of the valley, for it will put it on an equal footing with either Highland Park or Hollywood.

Four new residences are now in the process of erection, as follows: one for Mr. L. L. Adams, one for Mr. Avington, one for W. K. Cowan and one for J. R. Adams. All will be first-class wooden buildings under high building restrictions.

LARGER QUARTERS NECESSARY.

Hezmalhatch & Talbott's grocery business has grown to such an extent that the boys found the store room in the Bailey block on Third street entirely too small for their trade, and in consequence they have moved into the large store room in the Ayers block on Glendale avenue, just north of Third street.

set them to thinking as they never thought before.

The political and financial grafters of Los Angeles have been trying for ages to make the people of Los Angeles think there is and always has been a shortage of water up there in that big valley, and that the city owns it all—and then some. That was the original cry, says the South Pasadena. But when Otis Huntington and Company bought up the land, there was a modification, and only those who owned land within the four mile limit, owned the city's water and would have to give it up. You see it was necessary to give in on this proposition, for it would never do to have the Los Angeles Times against the proposition of robbing the farmers of their water. And it sure would have been against the move if the land owned by the owner of the Times had been included in the limit.

Talk about your big grafts, this is the biggest of them all. The city is constantly howling about the water belonging to it, and that it needs the water for the people and must have it. Therefore they sued the farmers of that portion of the valley not within the "four mile limit" and what's more they won the suit. And this in face of testimony that ought to have lost the suit for them. And now they are taking out injunctions, or threatening to, to make the farmers stop pumping water with which to irrigate their land. And if they succeed in this they will make a veritable desert of the San Fernando, one of the most beautiful valleys in the state at present—with plenty of water. But if they fail, as they should, they will still have plenty of water in Los Angeles for many years to come, even with its rapid growth. At present there are many of their pumping plants idle, and those that are running are not running at anything like full time. In fact the city could constantly pump fifteen hundred miners inches of water more than it is pumping.

And another thing you should note as you go along. The water the ranchers are pumping comes from a strata, or rather from a number of stratas, that are cut off from the Los Angeles river by impervious clay beds. And if the City of Los Angeles succeeds in stopping the ranchers from pumping this water, it will soon be seen that the Los Angeles river will not flow as much water as it does now. The water the rancher brings up and uses upon his land does its work in irrigation and the surplus finds its way into the Los Angeles river, to augment the supply there, for it can never get back through the clay beds that underlie the river. And if they are not allowed to pump, the people of Los Angeles will really have less water than they have now.

Oh, it's a great big game of graft, and sooner or later the people will get onto it. But they will not so long as the newspapers of the city can keep them in ignorance of it. Talk about your Owens river water supply. It is all right as a bona fide proposition, but if this is a sample of the way the grafters of Los Angeles intend to handle it, the less country people have to do with it the better it will be for them. This is a matter that deeply concerns every one of you. Do not sit idly by and congratulate yourself that you live not in San Fernando valley and are therefore immune from the baneful effects of this grand and outrageous steal. For if these grafters can rob the people of the San Fernando valley, they can with equal show of right rob the people of San Gabriel valley.

Can you picture the result of this robbing the ranchmen of their water? Have you noted in your travels in that valley the attention they pay to the education of their children? They are a progressive people up there. Their homes are the homes of intelligence and well directed effort. They raise some of the finest fruit that is raised in this great state. And their deciduous fruits are not one whit behind those of the far-famed fruit centers. Their peaches and apricots are so large that many of them weigh a ton—and it don't take so awful many as you might think.

All over the valley the sound of the pumping plant is heard. And if you follow up the sound it will bring you to a modern up-to-date pumping plant that is raising water from far below the clay beds that underlie the valley, that is entirely different from the water of the Los Angeles river, which is more of a surface nature. This water is giving life and vigor to the thousands and tens of thousands of trees, plants and shrubs that are grown for profit and pleasure. But let the injunctions issue and stop all this, and where will these happy, prosperous and beautiful homes be? They will be given over to the ground-squirrel, the gopher, the coyote and the rattlesnake. The handsome residences and school houses will have bats and rats for tenants. Thousands of happy and prosperous people will be ruined and many are too old to make a new start in life. If there was reason for it; if there was any show of right in it; if there could be shown a semblance of justice in it, some excuse might be made for those who are prime movers in the grafting steal.—Compton Enterprise.

Members of the Los Angeles County Press Association, to the number of fifteen, spent a day in the San Fernando valley recently, the guests of Editor McClure of the Glendale News.

The party arrived at the pretty little foothill city at 10 o'clock, where they were met by the mayor and a party of citizens, with automobiles, and were given an enjoyable and profitable ride about the valley. The first stop was made at Tropic, where the office and shipping depot of the Berry Growers' Association is located. The growing of strawberries is one of the chief industries of this section of this most fertile and productive valley, and the association alone will have shipped, before the season closes, a quarter million dollars worth of these luscious berries. The principal shipments are made to Los Angeles and to points in Arizona. Great care is taken in the preparation of the berries for market, and those shipped to Arizona points are iced, which enables them to be carried to their destination with very little decay. After inspecting the manner of shipping and enjoying to their utmost capacity the delicious fruit, the trip through Tropic was continued to the pumping plant of Dwight Griswold on the San Fernando road, where much information was gained regarding the water supply of the San Fernando valley. The trip was then continued to the L. C. Brand pumping plant, where a large stream is raised to the surface and forced up the grade to Burbank and other points higher in the foothills. These are but two of the many pumping plants throughout this valley which supply the berry raisers and orchardists the water that is so necessary to their success; for without this water the valley would be thrown back into the unproductive state it was in twenty years ago.

When Burbank was reached a rest of an hour was taken, during which citizens of the town supplied the visitors with a lunch in Foresters' Hall. On again entering the automobiles the ride was continued through a section of country in its undeveloped state, without irrigation, and also other sections where it is under a high state of cultivation by means of water from wells.

The farmers of this beautiful valley have been having a series of law suits with the city of Los Angeles over the right to use water from below the surface, and so far the greater city has had the best of the controversy. The city claims that by pumping water and using it in the production of crops, the farmers are depriving Los Angeles of rights that it gained many years ago. The farmers claim to be able to prove that Los Angeles never gained title to the water, and that if it did the farmers were not using the water flowing in the river, but were drawing it from strata 150 feet below the surface of the river bed; that this did not lessen the flow of the river, but increased it; that they drew their supply from beneath an impervious soil, and much of this water again found its way into the river, thus increasing its supply instead of diminishing it. The case is yet to be settled finally. Although Los Angeles has several wells in this valley only one is being used, and the water is not taken to Los Angeles, but is sold to Hollywood, thus giving evidence that the water of this valley is not needed in Los Angeles.

The drive then continued along the foothills, where a splendid view of the fertile valley was obtained, and ended at Casa Verdugo, where a Spanish dinner was served to the delight and great satisfaction of hungry pencil pushers.—Monrovia Messenger.

The people of the San Fernando Valley, Southern California and in fact many other sections of the country have been much surprised at a decision recently rendered by Judge Gibbs of the Superior Court for Los Angeles County, in effect that the City of Los Angeles was entitled to all the subterranean waters of the San Fernando valley for a distance of four miles above the Los Angeles river, holding that all such waters were tributary to and flowed into the said river. The claim that according to an old Spanish grant to the pueblo of Los Angeles the city was not only entitled to all the water running in the river, but that tributary. The main point at issue is whether the water stratas in question are tributary to the river. The closest investigation, by tests and temperature, pumping without lowering the river, and the fact that walls of hard-pan soil which would not allow the water to percolate through, all go to show that the evidence to bring the verdict from Judge Gibbs must have been indeed singular. And according to that verdict the City of Los Angeles can at any time, enjoin the ranchers from using water to irrigate their lands. As the lands about Tropic, Glendale and Burbank are used for intensive farming, fruit raising, especially small fruits, strawberries, vegetables, etc., the necessity of much water is readily seen. There are now a number of pumping plants at work in the valley bringing the water to the surface from a depth of 500, 1,000 and even greater depths. Much money has been invested in forces way and from there were taken to Casa Verdugo. After a rest our party was seated to a genuine old fashioned Spanish dinner, consisting of barbecued meat, tortillas, enchiladas, frijoles, chili con carne, etc.

This is one of the finest high class Spanish restaurants on the Pacific coast, managed by C. A. Sowl, a genial and courteous young gentleman.

After dinner we were driven to Glendale, where we took the cars for the city.

The writer had the pleasure of riding with J. F. McIntyre, one of Glendale's leading business men and also a director in the Bank of Glendale. Mr. McIntyre came to Glendale in 1895 and in 1900 opened a lumber yard. He is a young man and is known as one of the substantial and reliable business men of Glendale. He has a "Reo," one of the best machines made, and he understands how to handle it. We had a most delightful trip.

We will have more to say about that section of the country in our next issue.—Compton Enterprise.

The object of the trip by the editors of the country press to San Fernando valley last week, was to look over the water-bearing lands and ascertain the lay of the land for themselves. If a few of those Los Angeles schemers and grafters would take a trip up through the valley it would do them a whole lot of good, and would these pumping plants, pipe lines and other apparatus for distributing water over the land and to domestic users. Thousands upon thousands of dollars have also been expended in improving the farms. Should the City of Los Angeles be allowed to take away these water rights, the people of the fair and fruitful San Fernando Valley would be obliged to vacate their lands and be in an impoverished condition financially. After personally investigating the water, we do not believe that Los Angeles is entitled to the verdict she received, or the water from lands referred to and if she is, need not and should not insist on having the pound of flesh from her neighbors of the San Fernando Valley. We noticed that the City of Los Angeles has several tracts of water bearing lands in the section now covered with three or four pumping plants, which are idle. If the city needs more water these pumping plants should be started and the city's water supply could be at once increased largely. This question of the rights of the rancher for water, appeals to the people at large and similar claims might be made by cities of other communities concerning old Spanish grants of water bearing lands. There is no justice in such action by the court as in the San Fernando valley case and we believe if the ranchers succeed in getting an appeal of the case to a higher court the decision of Judge Gibbs will be reversed.

On Saturday last, at the invitation of Editor McClure, of the Glendale News, and other prominent residents of that section of the valley, fifteen members of the Los Angeles County Press Association, including the editor of this paper, made a personal tour of inspection of the district affected by the water decision. The party was taken over the country in three automobiles and a four-horse rig and shown the situation by water men and ranchers. At Burbank the citizens gave the party nice refreshments at noon and later in the day a Spanish dinner, including barbecued beef, was provided for the hungry newspaper men at Casa Verdugo. The entertainment given the party was, of course, dilly appreciated, but not more so than the knowledge obtained by the visit that those people, if enjoined from pumping water and giving "life" to the land, would be simply robbed of their rights. —Alhambra Advocate.

Last Saturday, July 28, the members of the Los Angeles County Weekly Press Association enjoyed an outing in the San Fernando Valley. At 9:30 we boarded the car at the Pacific Electric depot, Los Angeles, and went to Glendale, where we were met by the Board of Trustees, and in automobiles and carriages were taken to the strawberry exchange, Tropico, Burbank, and over the valley.

Perhaps the most important thing told us was that there is plenty of water; that the water pumped from those deep wells is not only quite different in temperature, but is very different in analysis from the surface water for which Los Angeles is making such a fight. They claim that bringing that water to the surface only increases the flow in the river. Few people realize the extent of the strawberry interests and other small fruit and vegetables, in this valley. One man received last year, $23,000 from his 12 acres of strawberries. There are hundreds of acres now planted and thousands are possible.

And, Los Angeles has five wells in the valley, and is using but two of them, but does not want certain others to use theirs.

That is their side of the question. There may be another side.

However, all will long remember the valley and Editor McClure of the Glendale News, President W. Parcher and the other members of the Board, the impromptu lunch at Burbank and that grand Spanish dinner at Casa Verdugo in the evening. —Hollywood Sentinel.

WILL SURPRISE THE WORLD.

The impression of a trained observer, an eminent newspaper and magazine writer, involves a gift of analysis and a power to look beneath the surface not possessed by the ordinary mind.

The words of such a man are of value in these strenuous days. We are too busy to spend time sifting testimony. We want the facts—"boiled down."

Thus it is a pleasure to record the views of one of the editorial writers for the New York Independent, Col. Willard French, who recently visited San Francisco, en route to Australia. Col. French speaks enthusiastically with regard to the work that has been done in San Francisco since the fire.

"I was thunderstruck when I entered San Francisco," said the Colonel, "to note the difference between the city as it actually is and as it is represented to be by some of the correspondents of the New York papers. I expected to find nothing but strikes, wrangling, the town in ruins, business paralyzed, population depleted. Just as an instance of what I looked forward to, I read in a New York paper, as I came west, that ten years hence there would be eleven hundred people in San Francisco."

When I reached here the actual conditions astounded me. Workmen everywhere clearing the ruins and rebuilding, electric cars to take me anywhere I desired to go, fine shops, splendid hotels—all the work of a great city going on as if nothing had happened.

Cleaning the City from Within.

"Three months from now I think that San Francisco will surprise the world. The cleaning of the city is going on from within—you have not begun to bother about outside appearances yet. Buildings which look like ruins on the outside are full of business men who are doing their usual work in makeshift offices. The man with the camera sees the ruins and photographs it, but he is ignorant of what is going on inside. As he stops to snap a picture of some ruin he may be turning his back on an unpretentious building that is temporarily housing the tremendous energy of a great business whose commercial relations with the entire world have been continued almost without interruption since the fire. I think it a brutal shame that correspondents should misrepresent conditions here." —S. F. Progress.

A San Francisco dispatch states that the fund of $565,000 deposited in New York by the Transatlantic Fire Insurance company of Hamburg, which has disavowed liability for its losses here, has been attached by policy holders of San Francisco to prevent the German corporation from withdrawing from the United States. The total claims of holders of policies in that city are about $600,000. The whole deposit is probably a trust fund for the benefit of all the policy holders in this country and in case the courts declare the claim just this money will be distributed proportionally among them. The body of policy holders met and decided to form an organization to fight as a unit. It is intended to wage the battle in the German courts.

Dr. F. Omori, professor of seismology in the Imperial University of Tokyo, who was sent by the Japanese government to investigate the recent seismic disturbance here, has finished his researches and investigations and departed August 5 on the Doric for Japan. He arrived here on May 18 and during his stay devoted his entire time studying the country from Chittenden, the southern point where the force began to show its greatest power, north to Point Arena, where the force was continued out into the Pacific. In speaking of his investigations he said: "I have been interested in this work for many years and from my observations I can state that earthquakes which remove a great instability in the earth's crust never happen successively." Comparing the San Francisco disturbance with the great earthquake of Japan in 1891, he writes:

"The intensity of motion in the California earthquake was much less violent and the number of casualties in San Francisco and the different parts of the strongly shaken zone was unusually small comparatively."

Referring to the series of recent seismic disturbances along the Pacific between Alaska and South America, he states: "The shock of April 18 may therefore be regarded as having completed the continuity of the manifestation of seismic activity along these districts, which latter thus become for a number of years seismically a very safe place."—S. NEARING THE CENTURY MARK.

Mrs. Adoline Ford of Minnehaha Falls, Minnesota, mother of Mrs. J. P. Nichols of Glendale, is aged 98 years and in the issue of August 9 of the Minnehaha Messenger, a paper published at Minnehaha Falls, Mrs. Ford's photo appears, and an account of the celebration of her ninety-eighth birthday is given. Mrs. Ford is a wonderfully well preserved person for her age, and she celebrated her ninety-eighth anniversary by taking a drive through the park and walking about and visiting many points of interest and afterward attended a family picnic. Mrs. Ford remembers having heard the roar of cannons at the battle of Queenstown in 1812, and she, with other children thought the noise was thunder. Mrs. Ford was born during the administration of the third president of the United States, Thomas Jefferson. The first of the presidents that she can remember was Monroe, and she remembers hearing the people shouting his name during the campaign of 1816.
